“A Sinner and a Saint” By Adam Ollendorff and Participants in Songwriting 101

She grew up on the island of the hummingbird
When she’s mad she always uses bad dutch words
She tells me that she’s fond of me, even though she can’t see nuh uh
She drinks in front of the TV and always asks us what is going on

Sweet old lady but she’ll set you straight
She isn’t perfect but she’s pretty great
She’s a sinner and a saint

She played the organ every Sunday in the church
She’d light up in the back room when she had the urge
She always dropped the paper off but never ever stopped to say hello
Until she came up on the porch peeking in through the window

Sweet old lady but she’ll set you straight
She isn’t perfect but she’s pretty great
She’s a sinner and a saint

She’s sweet tea mixed with whiskey
Her voice is kind and husky
She doesn’t always say it but I know that she loves me

Sweet old lady but she’ll set you straight
She isn’t perfect but she’s pretty great
She’s a sinner and a saint
